

REMEMBER US

By Jason C. Mavrovitis

Remember Us begins the late nineteenth century Balkans — a time of exploding nationalism. The Ottoman Empire is in its death throes, and in Macedonia, Greek and Bulgarian irregulars pursue guerrilla warfare and ethnic cleansing to achieve their territorial ambitions. The Balkan and First World Wars loom in the future. Eleni, born in Sozopolis, a small Greek city on the coast of the Black Sea, clutches her baby girl and sees her husband killed in a pogrom instigated by Bulgarian nationalists.

In the mountains of Macedonia, Dimitraki, a boy whose life will intersect Eleni and her daughter's, fails in his attempt to assassinate a reviled Turkish governor. He eludes the hangman, but suffers the bastinado. Independently, they escape the Balkans' caldron of chaos, and cross the Atlantic to forge new lives, leaving homes and loved ones behind. But in America, separately and together, they face new trials, and must rely on their culture, heritage, and enduring family ties to overcome poverty, scandal, and tragedy.

"Remember Us is...a remarkable novel that opens up remarkable worlds."

Kitty Burns Florey, author of Sister Bernadette's Barking Dog, Solos, and Souvenir of Cold Springs

"...very touching and always deeply humane and generous in its vision of the human condition."

Peter Pappas, Editor, greekworks.com

"...a very balanced account...there are...few personal accounts of this time period in the Balkans...I look forward to teaching it."

Theodora Dragostinova, Ph.D., The Ohio State University

ISBN: 978-0-6151-6357-4

6x9 Softcover • 428 pages • $21.95

Available on 15 January 2008 at Lulu.com, Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com, or from Golden Fleece Publishing.

Remember Us is Jason Mavrovitis' first novel. His short story, O Patriotis, appeared in the May/June 2006 issue of Greece in Print: a Journal of Greek Literature and Culture. He is currently writing a second novel, which is set in the 11th century Balkans. Born in Brooklyn, New York, Mavrovitis is a graduate of Columbia University, and pursued graduate studies at the University of California, Berkeley. He held executive positions with Stanford University, American Savings, and the University of California, San Francisco. He and his wife, Bette, live in the wine country north of San Francisco.

www.GoldenFleecePublishing.com

To order Remember Us directly from the publisher, send your check or money order (sorry, no CODs) for $21.95 plus $5.95 shipping and handling to:

Golden Fleece Publishing
PO Box 356
El Verano, CA 95433-0356

Contact Golden Fleece Publishing at: 707-996-9554
EMail: Info@GoldenFleecePublishing.com

PUBLICATION DATE — 15 JANUARY 2008